Purpose

The purpose of the Public Art Strategy is to provide Council with an overview of opportunities and strategic direction for public art, both permanent and temporary; and to outline key actions to be implemented over the next 5 years.

This Public Art Strategy has considered our existing public art collection; considered current trends in contemporary arts practice throughout Australia and the world; explores participatory art forms through temporary art programs that engage with community and looks at possible sites as opportunities for Council to consider in the future.

The actions have been developed based on ongoing discussions and through consulting with the various stakeholders and the Hobsons Bay arts community on their ideas for public art in the city, as well as identifying strategic opportunities for the future.

The Public Art Strategy sets actions for artworks and sites across the municipality. The Strategy has been designed to be read in conjunction with the Public Art Policy 2012 which provides an overview of the processes for commissioning for public art in Hobsons Bay.

The Public Art Strategy 2016 - 2020 in accordance with the Public Art Policy 2012 has been designed to:

- a. Ensure that local stories and themes of cultural identity and sense of place are reflected through a cultural narrative captured through public art, including local Indigenous culture.
- b. Ensure the highest aesthetic standards are met in the commissioning of artworks across the city.
- c. Ensure the integrity of the existing public art collection is maintained and enhanced through strategic commissioning standards and practice and through community consultation.
- d. Ensure diversity in the types of artworks that are commissioned across the municipality, and reflecting the cultural diversity and richness of our community.
- e. Express Hobsons Bay's image as a centre for excellence and innovation.
- f. Avoid the siting and commissioning of art works in areas that don't meet the stated vision and objectives of the Council.

Mayors message – Hobsons Bay Public Art Strategy 2016

Over past years Hobsons Bay has developed a significant public art collection, with our first commission being the much loved (and photographed) Cameron Robbins' work Time Beacon at 100 Steps at Truganina. The collection extends through site specific commissions along the Hobsons Bay Coastal Trail and other well located points of interest in the city.

Public art can have a multitude of benefits. Here in Hobsons Bay, we have been able to commission or work in partnership with organisations to deliver on many. It can enrich our experience of living in the city, our sense of belonging, in a very physical way. Artworks serve to highlight our history, promote our cultural life and help us learn about and be aware of environmental aspects of a particular place. New landmarks are created, and they can provide strong visual impressions as we move around the city.

The draft Hobsons Bay Public Art Strategy enables us to update and progress our thinking about public art. Its definition now extends beyond permanent commissions to include a range of arts outcomes, such as artist commissioned murals, design outcomes in infrastructure and planning, temporary activations and arts opportunities as part of larger events that enable our creative expression and experience.

The draft Hobsons Bay Public Art Strategy 2016 provides Council's strategic context, reinforces its cultural agenda, through advocating, planning and documenting public art, further extending our city as a vibrant place to live, and to visit.

Cr Peter Hemphill
Mayor of Hobsons Bay

1. Introduction

1.1 Our community

Hobsons Bay is located at the north western end of Port Phillip Bay and is home to the suburbs of Altona, Altona Meadows, Altona North, Brooklyn, Laverton, Newport, Seabrook, Seaholme, South Kingsville, Spotswood, Williamstown and Williamstown North.

Hobsons Bay is unique to the western metropolitan region. It has over 20 kilometres of beaches and foreshore areas; it is home to significant coastal wetlands, five creek systems, remnant native grasslands, and important flora and fauna habitats, making up 24 per cent of the municipality's land area. It features important historic landmarks and streetscapes, as well as recently developed residential areas and a rich industrial history.

Our community loves Hobsons Bay for its proximity to the CBD, the coast, its parks and green spaces, its vibrant atmosphere and sense of community, its character housing and above all its people, which makes the area almost the ideal place to live for many.

1.2 Why have public art?

Public art can deliver many benefits to the city; it contributes to strong feelings of identity, ownership and pride within a community, and contributes to the positioning of the city as a centre of cultural excellence, both through the commissioning and promotion of public art.

Public art

- can bring a sense of wellbeing and belonging to a community.
- can highlight significant historical, cultural, environmental and social aspects of an area.
- creates landmarks in the urban environment that define spaces, act as wayfinding devices and become natural gathering places.
- revitalises and renews an area and can activate a space, providing social and economic benefits.
- encourages interaction with a space or facility.
- improves the visual amenity and quality of public spaces.
- enhances the cultural tourism and visitor appeal of the city.

3.1 Public art in Hobsons Bay

The City of Hobsons Bay has a significant public art collection. A strategic commissioning process was undertaken through the People, Piers and Pelicans Strategy (2002). PPPS enabled a number of high quality site-specific works to be commissioned along the Hobsons Bay Coastal Trail from 2002 through to 2009. These include Time Beacon at Truganina Park, H2O Stint Map in Altona Meadows and Whirlpool at The Warmies, Newport.

Additional commissions have been undertaken through partnerships with government organisations such as Linking Laverton artworks in McCormack Park in partnership with Department Of Transport's Sustainable Transport unit; Reunion, by Grant Finck at Laverton Train Station which was funded by the Department of Transport; Images of the West which enabled Fire Within by Adrian Mauriks on the Princes Freeway. Public art has been implemented under the Council's direction and resources for various purposes such as way finding to help promote the identity of a particular area or highlight the entry to a park. Examples of this are Grow at the corner of Queen and Merton Street, Altona Meadows and Diver at Newport Lakes.

Outside of these permanent public artworks, the Council has enabled temporary public artworks through its operational arts and culture programming areas and facilitated these through initiatives like Art in Public Places. Examples are projections, pavement works and temporary wall works including murals.

The Council had also commissioned a number of community art projects under the Vibrant Villages program, some of the artworks such as the Spotswood Tree, in Hudsons Road and You are Here in Borrack square, are successful interpretations of community art with a lead artist that have placemaking approaches and outcomes.

3.2 Public art locations

Public art in Hobsons Bay is well dispersed throughout the coastal area and activity centres. This Strategy serves to identify opportunities that meet the vision of the Council as opposed to identifying geographical gaps in the siting of artworks. When an artwork has been proposed and there is a perceived 'gap', this may be due to any number of factors:

- a. Suitability of site i.e. heritage overlay, environmental impact, culturally significant sites, land use suitability.
- b. Unsuitable investment for return i.e. isolation and not meeting the objectives of Council.
- c. Visual amenity of an area, i.e. if the site or area is visually cluttered with signage and urban design elements a permanent public artwork may be less successful and not ideal.
- d. An area earmarked for future development, whereby the inclusion of public art may be premature.
- e. Costs associated with potential maintenance and not meeting the public assessment framework.

Where a site might be suggested / put forward for public art in Hobsons Bay, a proposal will initially be assessed based on the framework and above criteria. If the site is considered unsuitable, an opportunity then exists for temporary art projects to be considered that still support cultural activation and still enable an innovative but ever-changing public art opportunity in the community.

Opportunities may arise throughout the life of this Strategy that have not been identified. These opportunities will be assessed based on the guidelines and criteria outlined in this Strategy and the Public Art Policy 2012.

3.3 Integration with other Council Plans and Policies

Development of a Public Art Strategy (2016 – 2020) is consistent with objectives in the:

Council Plan and Community Health and Wellbeing Plan 2013 -2017

Objective: An inclusive, resilient and healthy community, Goal 2: A well-planned, vibrant and sustainable place;

Objective: Foster community wellbeing, capacity and sense of belonging Goal 2 action; enhance neighbourhood character, while respecting local heritage and open space, plan for a well designed urban environment and public space that enhances safety for all community members and contribute to the life of the city;

Hobsons Bay Arts and Culture Plan 2011- 2015

Key principles: Cultural Vitality, Sustainability, Innovation and Excellence; Participation and Social Inclusion.

The Public Art Strategy would be referenced in all Council strategies that relate to the public realm.

3.4 Assessment framework includes:

In accordance to the Public Art Policy 2012 the following assessment framework will assist in determining the most appropriate artwork type for specific sites identified under the Strategy and when determining the suitability of a proposal.

- Historical and cultural sensitivity i.e.: Heritage overlay areas, environmental and culturally significant sites and urban design framework.
- Council's direction and relevant strategic planning for the area in which the artwork is proposed to be sited.
- Aesthetics and proposed themes and their suitability for a public space and or area.
- Proposed treatments for integration of the artwork into the surrounding space or built form e.g. landscape works.
- Consideration of environmentally sustainable design principles where possible and ensuring resources are sourced locally where possible, reducing the ecological footprint.
- Life span of proposed artwork.
- Proposed maintenance plans and associated costs and how they can be accommodated.
- How well the proposal meets the objectives of the policy.
- Consent from planning, building or land management authorities.
- Site suitability in relation to proximity to roads, for safety, flood prone areas and environmental sensitivity.

3.5 As identified in the Public Art Policy the lifespan of public art is as follows:

10 year life span - Public art that is sculptural in form and or made of durable materials that can withstand weather and time for a reasonable period and have minimal maintenance.

Up to 5 year life span - Public art in the form of public sculptures, murals, pavement designs, mosaic panels, that are made of non durable, non weathering materials that have a life span that is reduced and where the integrity of the work is no longer achieved due to this, and/or maintenance costs are deemed excessive, the expected life span is 5 years.

Temporary or less than two years life span - Public art in the form of sculptural elements, outdoor projections, street art projects, murals, flag installations and billboards are temporary dynamic projects that provide opportunities for participation from numerous artists and or groups and are enhanced by the opportunity to change regularly, have an expected life span of less than two years, and are assessed on a case to case basis.

4. Public art can be...

Memorial or interpretative – artwork that reflects, captures and interprets historical, social, environmental significance within a local area. The artwork could also reflect a significant historical milestone.

Way finding or gateway - artwork that acts as a marker to a culturally or environmentally significant destination, or is a series of artworks that provides connectivity and denotes a trail to a destination.

Placemaking through public art – a community driven approach to transforming spaces, urban renewal and economic development through adaptable, multidisciplinary, social methods and outcomes. The creation of temporary public artworks that involve community participation, immersion or engagement are good examples of place making through public art.

Integrated design – artwork that has been designed in consultation with an architect or landscape architect that integrates within the building, infrastructure, landform or playspace. Integration can be achieved when a creative professional is engaged at the commencement of a project or at masterplan level. Types can include pavement design, suspended artworks that provide shade or shelter, sound walls.

Temporary art – artworks that have a short lifespan that can include community participation and engagement. Temporary artworks have the ability to push boundaries and promote critical dialogue and can enliven activity centres and open space and are ever changing. Temporary artworks can include but are not limited to, light and projection projects, sound scapes, paste-ups, murals, relational art concepts and environmental artworks.

Participation and relational art - Relational art incorporates social activism in a public space that experiments with participation, dialogue and community relations. Relational and participatory public art is less focused on tangible outcomes and more on the experiential qualities of public art making.

Other opportunities for public art can be through;

Creative spaces –the use of, or the creation of spaces that allow and support public art activity, such as temporary art projects; examples of this are disused buildings for art interventions, installing large multimedia screens as part of a development that can show short films, providing walls and various surfaces that explores innovative materials, for example the Williamstown Library polypropylene skin as a projection surface, Airtime on the flag poles at Altona Meadows Skate Park, and Orbital, a light box exhibition space at Central Square Shopping Centre.

5. Implementation

In accordance with the Public Art Policy 2012, public art can be implemented through the following methods:

5.1 Budget

5.1.1 Capital work projects for permanent artworks

By commissioning art works funded through the Council's capital works budget in accordance to the preparation of the Public Art Strategy 2016 – 2020, which identifies opportunities within Hobsons Bay that may be enhanced by public artwork.

For example:

- By commissioning permanent public artworks that are integrated in the design of buildings or infrastructure constructed by Hobsons Bay City Council.
- The provision of creative spaces (see definition) included within major capital works projects.
- As an outcome of a Council community art project which involves a professional artist creating an artwork in collaboration with the local community.

5.1.2 Operational through programs for temporary artworks

Within the current arts and culture program there are a number of opportunities to enhance public art in Hobsons Bay, through the commissioning of temporary art projects. Opportunities exist through programs such as city wide events and festivals.

Programs

Art in Public Places and precinct based approaches

Art in Public Places is coordinated by Hobsons Bay City Council as a biennial city wide event that exhibits the artwork of western region artists in businesses, various venues and unexpected spaces across Hobsons Bay. Outdoor temporary art interventions have already been enabled through Art In Public Places. Over the past few years, examples include Frieze Frame by Anne Scambary and Tony Mead in Hall Street Newport, Space Invaders by Giovanna Inserra in Seaholme, String Story by Suzanne Nguyen in Altona, 500 cans in three sites in Laverton, If I Could Change the World blackboard in Mason Street, Newport, Street Talk by Nancy Lang and Transitions Hobsons Bay, Projector Bike and The Crossing in Newport, presented by These are the Projects we do together and Light up Logan in Altona.

Council should continue to work closely with representatives of the activity centres to further enhance this component of the program and help encourage the local arts community to think beyond galleries and consider creating a temporary installation in outdoor environments.

Temporary outdoor art interventions under Art in Public Places are assessed through Council's Arts and Culture unit within the framework outlined in the Public Art Policy 2012. These temporary artworks are in place for between four and sixteen weeks.

Hello Neighbour

Public Art Interventions in Ancillary and Interstitial Spaces.

Ancillary and interstitial spaces are defined as 'spaces in between' that people most likely pass by, rather than gather, examples are railways lines, under bridges and laneways etc.

Within this Strategy ancillary and interstitial spaces have been identified within Hobsons Bay as opportunities to engage at a very local level, to present creative approaches. Workshop programs will provide a framework and mechanism for engagement and the program will explore innovative concepts that become temporary art interventions.

Artists will explore temporary art as a means of expression in an urban environment, the works would be of a temporary nature and would be endorsed by external stakeholders and adhere to the guidelines for temporary artworks as stipulated in the Public Art Policy 2012. Examples of types of artworks would be participatory film projects and projections in public spaces, pop ups, murals and large scale paste-ups.

Festivals and Events

Opportunities exist to collaborate with major festival and event providers to enable high profile public art projects to coincide with these events in support of economic development through cultural tourism, for example light and projection projects; in collaboration with cultural events such as such as Melbourne Fringe Festival, Midsumma, Big West, Art and Industry, the Williamstown Literary Festival and Newport Folk Festival.

5.1.3 Maintenance

A budget provision is required for general care of the public art collection that includes cleaning and repairs to the artworks in the event of wear and tear, damage caused by extreme weather or acts of vandalism from which the artistic structure has been compromised; and utilising insurance is not a viable option. The budget includes provision for graffiti resistant coatings where applicable and for the removal of artworks i.e.: paste ups as part of temporary art programs. However budget provision excludes general graffiti management. (Refer to Graffiti Management Policy 2010)

5.2 Partnerships

Through commissioning public art projects in partnership with other government agencies (including external funding sources, e.g. grants and private) at negotiated sites or sites identified within the Strategy.

Opportunities may exist through advocacy and facilitation of the following:

- By commissioning permanent public artworks that are integrated in the design of buildings or infrastructure constructed by agencies / stakeholders other than Hobsons Bay City Council.
- The provision of creative spaces (see definition) included within major capital works and or on adjoining land, building or infrastructure owned and managed by external stakeholders.
- As an outcome of a community art project which involves a professional artist creating an artwork in collaboration with the local community and external stakeholders.
- For integration of art and design into major infrastructure projects.
- The provision of art and design as temporary art projects in buildings that are unused.

5.3 Acquisitions through donations, bequests and gifts

Public artworks can be acquired through the donation, bequeathing or the gifting of an artwork; or funds through which a commission can be undertaken. The assessment framework outlined in the Public Art Policy and key principles of this Strategy should apply to ascertaining the suitability of gifts and bequests. Further details will be outlined in the Acquisitions Policy (to be developed as part of the Collection Management Policy). This can include commissioning of permanent public artworks that are integrated in the design of buildings or infrastructure constructed by agencies / stakeholders other than Hobsons Bay City Council.

6. On ground works and installation

6.1 Landscape

Permanent works require an integrated landscape design response and associated construction documentation to ensure they;

- are well integrated into the proposed setting and context
- incorporate naming and interpretive signage
- include associated hard and soft-scape works where appropriate
- include lighting where appropriate
- comply with all safety, access and structural engineering requirements and standards

6.2 Signage

Future signage of new permanent artworks would adhere to the following criteria

- Signage to be placed in a suitable buffer area from the artwork, so that it does not crowd or distract from the artwork while still highlighting the message of the artwork.
- Signage should require minimal maintenance and be aesthetically consistent with other signage elements i.e. design and materiality and be in line with the Council's design guidelines.
- Temporary artworks do not need permanent signage however where possible an opportunity to promote through alternative means is desirable, highlighting the name of the artists, title and themes.

6.3 Compliance and Engineering

All commissioned public artworks works go through a rigorous process to reach a contractual agreement with Council that requires full engineering specification and checks for footings; as well as a risk assessment prior to installation. All public artworks must be compliant and all artists/ creative professionals and their subcontractors require the relevant insurances and permits; and are required to work in a safe and appropriate manner at all times.

6.4 Accessibility

Where possible consideration must be made to ensure public artworks are accessible for people living with a disability, whether this is through ensuring paths to artworks are fully accessible and compliant or through producing materials that support the artworks that tell their story through alternative methods.

6.5 Lighting

Lighting of artworks provides a visual impact at night for the public art collection, signifying a place or a landmark, while also providing an element of safety and passive security.

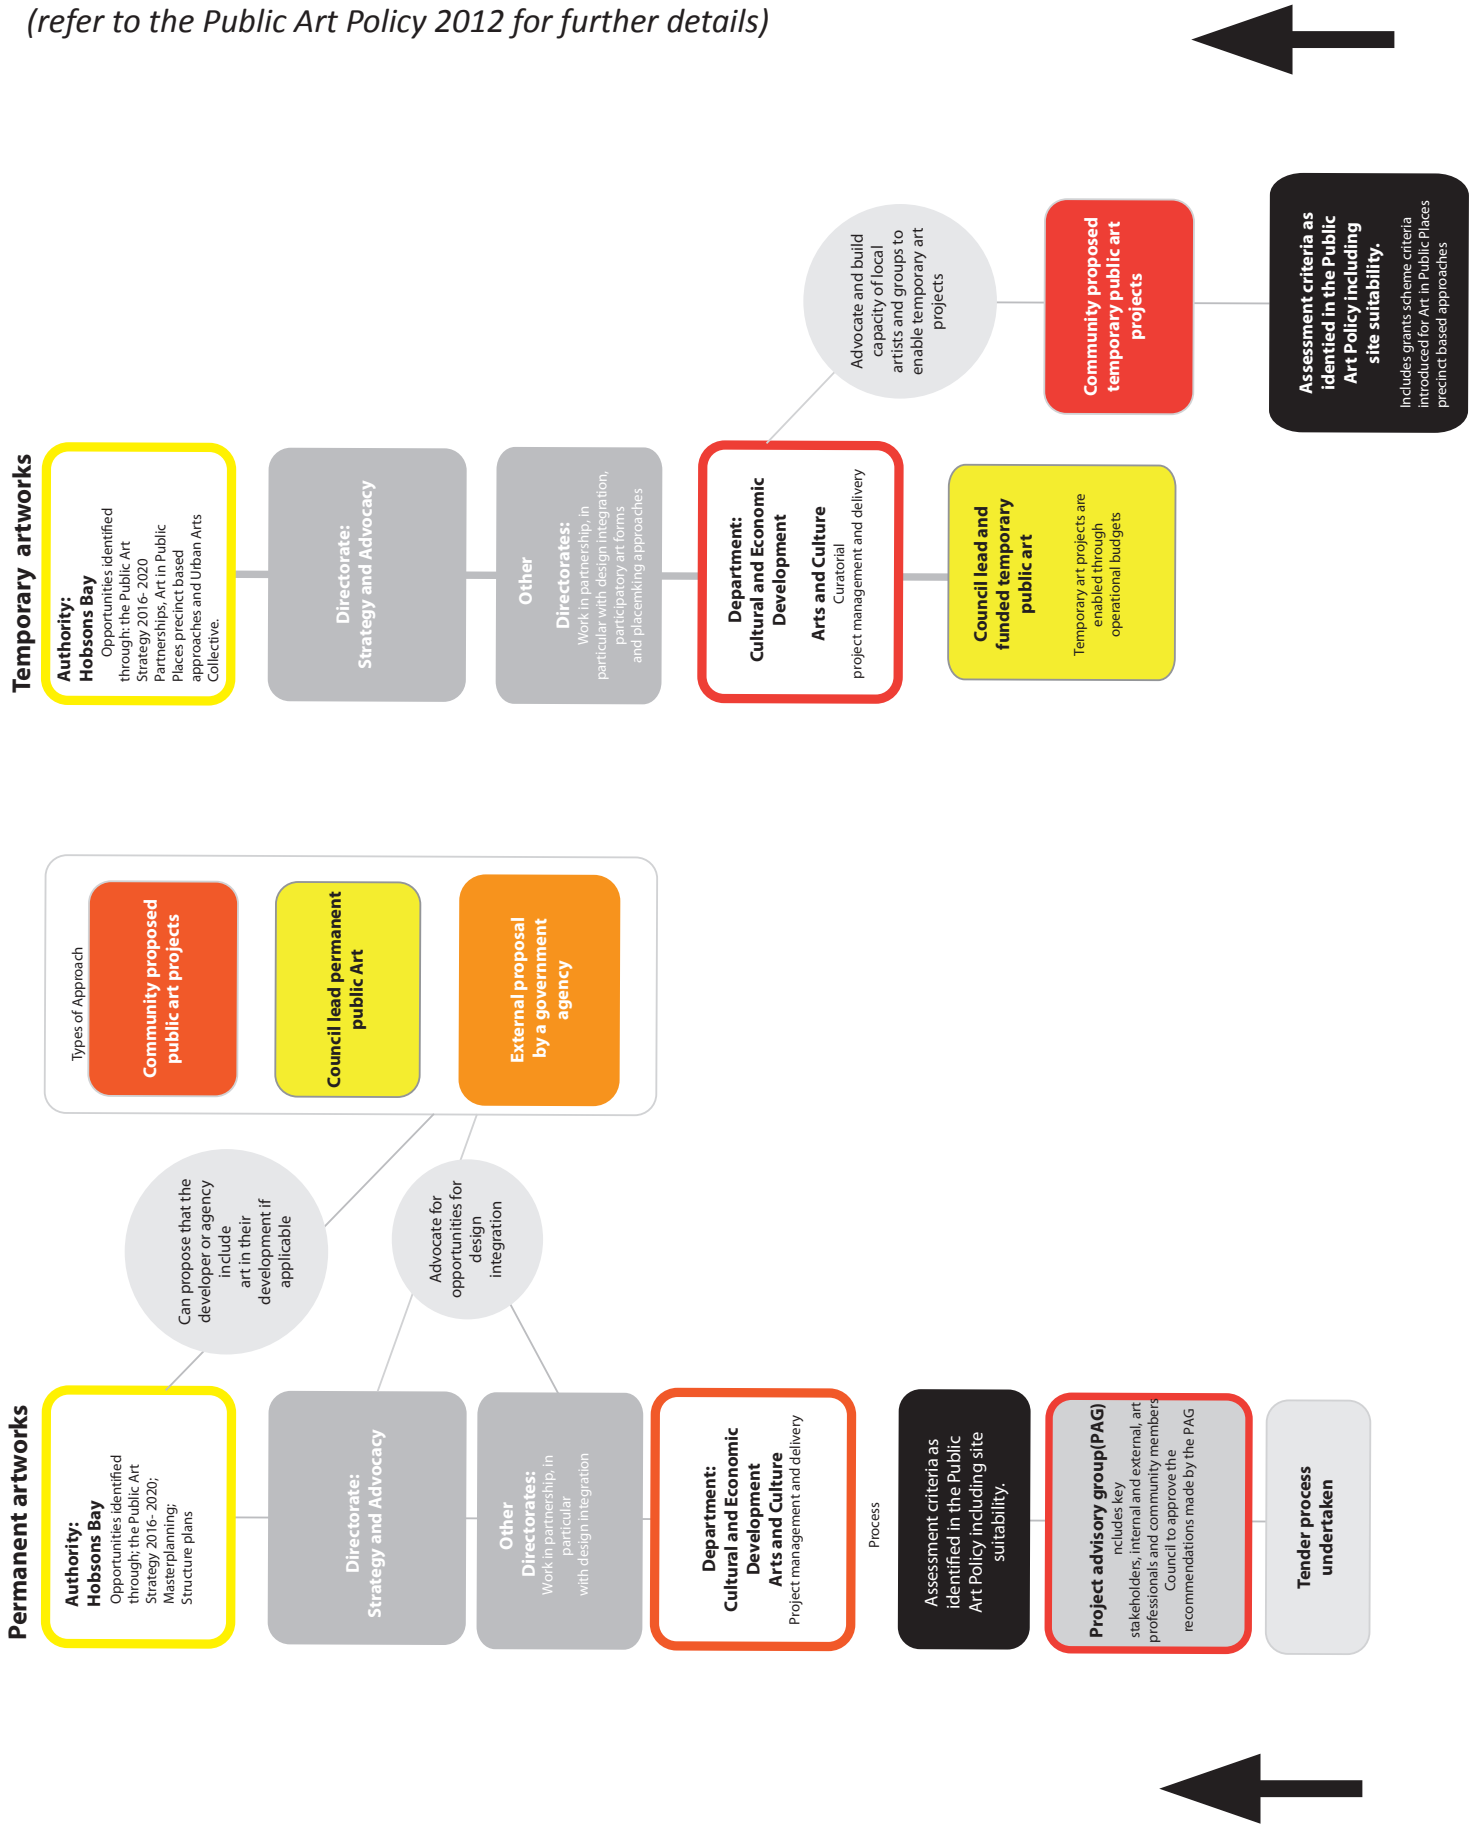

The following guidelines and principles should be applied to lighting public artworks:

- Lighting should be cost effective and be of the highest technological advancement in environmentally sustainable design.
- Lighting may contribute to way finding.
- Public art may be a lighting design in its entirety.
- Not all artworks need to include lighting; each site and artwork type needs to be addressed case by case based on the objectives, benefits and outcomes.
- Must involve a professional lighting designer/ engineer.
- Artists need to be part of the consultation with regards to any lighting design of their artworks.
- Lighting types can vary from up lights, pole lighting or suspended lighting depending on the artwork design.

7. Promotions

Council has produced a public art brochure that outlines the artworks throughout Hobsons Bay. Each artwork is promoted through a postcard and through online public art fact sheets. Images of the public art collection are continually used in tourism campaigns and other collateral. Through the term of the Public Art Strategy 2016 – 2020, new opportunities to leverage the public art collection and programs will be identified, that can enhance community pride as well as to leverage the cultural tourism benefits. Examples of these are guided or self guided tours, online gallery and apps.

8. Flow chart for the identification and scoping of public art projects to their implementation.

ACTIONS

PUBLIC ART STRATEGY

2016 - 2020

There are many opportunities for public art, from very small participatory grassroots concepts to large scale permanent gateway artworks. The action plan sets an inspirational scope of opportunities for public art in Hobsons Bay that includes both temporary and permanent artworks, as well as opening scope to attract commissioned work by high profile nationally recognised artists ; to the commissioning of new works that are created by local community artists through community engagement programs and principles, while also setting the scene for the future.

Opportunities can be drawn upon to help inform integrated design opportunities in relation to large infrastructure projects, master plans or structure plans, to ensure broader holistic planning principles are applied in the future.

Key Principles

Site specific approach

A site-specific artwork is a work that derives its meaning or context from the site it interacts with. Factors which influence a site-specific artwork are aspects such as social, cultural narratives and the historical and environmental layers on the landscape or built form in which it is placed. The Council should always pursue a site specific approach.

Innovation and excellence

Foster innovation and excellence in public art through commissioning artworks most likely from artists across Australia, that enhance the cultural reputation of the city.

Place-making and community engagement

Producing artworks that involve the community that are participatory, immersive and engaging. The Council enables community consultation on permanent artworks through establishing a unique Project Advisory Group (PAG) for each permanent commission. Arts and Culture Plan 2011 – 2015 Arts, space and places Objective 1: Support innovative and high quality arts programs that represent best practice, achieve positive outcomes and encourage neighbourhood vitality.

Critical dialogue

Engaging communities through public art by providing cultural experience and exposure to contemporary themes and narratives, thus promoting critical dialogue, reflection and debate.

Economic development and cultural tourism

Arts and Culture Plan 2011 – 2015 Arts, space and places Objective 2: Identify and promote key sites for the public art program that will enhance community sense of belonging and contribute to the positioning of the city as a centre of cultural excellence.

Arts and Culture Plan 2011 – 2015 Strategic development and capacity building – Maximise opportunities to promote Hobsons Bay as a centre of cultural excellence and as a leader in its field.

Asset management

The Public Art Policy 2012 and the Public Art Strategy 2016-2020 (the Strategy) aim to support the curation and management of a public art collection.
